Teacher of English, Malay-medium rural secondary school, Trengganu, Malaysia.

Oct 1976-June 1978

Lecturer in English language, Jagiellonian University, Kraków, Poland.

Main research topics

- The relationship between humans and the natural environment through farming, hunting and gathering and the manipulation of the landscape (e.g. through moving earth and stone), and the social, economic and cosmological ramifications of that relationship.
- Beliefs about dragons and mythical snakes among different ethnic groups in Borneo, including tribal groups, Malays and Chinese, as these express cosmological beliefs about water.
- Oral literature as an expression of the relationship between people and the natural environment.
- The significance of the production and consumption of food in constructing human social relationships, through its role in structuring kin relations and including the role of food in structuring hierarchical relationships.
- Cosmological beliefs as these relate to the relationship of humans with the natural environment and the obtaining, processing and consumption of food.
- Food as a means of establishing and managing identity in the context of migration.

Research field areas

- Multiple sites in Borneo (Sarawak, Sabah and Kalimantan) as part of my research on beliefs about water spirits and the 'dragon' from 2017 onwards, beginning with the research fellowship I held at the Sarawak Museum (see above).

- The Kelabit Highlands in Sarawak (two years 1986-88 and many subsequent visits of between one and four months).
- Among Poles in the UK who left Poland as forced migrants, deported to Siberia and Kazakhstan in 1940 (1991 onwards, part-time and ongoing).
- Ghana, Uganda, Ethiopia, Tanzania, Mozambique, South Africa, Zambia, Armenia, Romania and Georgia (short-term visits as part of research projects while employed at the Natural Resources Institute, University of Greenwich, and while working as an independent consultant).
- Among Methodists and Catholics in the UK (as part of research projects on which I was employed by the Methodist Church and the Catholic Church – see above).

Museum work

I am currently SE Asia Curator at the University of Hull, in charge of the collection of more than 3000 artefacts made through the Centre for SE Asian Studies from 1975 onwards and of the Roy Bruton Museum at the University. Until 2003, the University of Hull was a major centre for SE Asian Studies and it was in this context that the collection was made. I am planning a series of themed small exhibitions in the library at the University, complementary to the Museum. The first such exhibition was in May-June 2023, with the title 'Heroines, Heroes and Cosmic Power in SE Asia'.

For a year, from 2017 to 2018, I held a research fellowship at the Sarawak Museum. I carried out research on beliefs about animals in indigenous cosmological systems, and particularly water spirits and the 'dragon', to feed into new galleries there. I also advised on the 'highlands' section of the new galleries. I continue (2023) to work with the Museum on the preparation of the new galleries, advising on an informal level.

I guest-curated the exhibition The Cultured Rainforest at the Cambridge Museum of Archaeology and Anthropology in Spring 2013, with Dr. Mark Elliott. This drew on the research project The Cultured Rainforest (see below) in the Kelabit Highlands in Sarawak (my field site for my Ph.D. in the late 80s and subsequently – see above), and included Kelabit artefacts from the Cambridge University collection and artefacts lent from my personal collection. I curated an exhibition with the same name at the Sarawak Museum from November 2014, which included an exhibition of the collection of nearly 200 Kelabit artefacts which I made in the late 1980s for the Sarawak Museum. The exhibitions included videos and the virtual visits of the Kelabit Highlands which I created in collaboration with Douglas Cape of z360 as part of the Cultured Rainforest Project. In 2016 I transferred part of this exhibition up to the Kelabit Highlands, Sarawak for display in the new community museum there.

I made two collections of Kelabit artefacts for the British Museum and the Sarawak Museum in 1986-88. Catalogues for these are included in Janowski 2003a, which provides an exegesis of the objects collected.

As a student at the University of Sussex in 1972-6 I volunteered at the Brighton Museum and Art Gallery, helping to catalogue their collections.

Research grants 2005 onwards

- 2007-2011 Co-Investigator on the project The Cultured Rainforest. This was funded through an AHRC 'larger research grant' as part of the Landscape and Environment research programme. It was a collaboration between archaeologists and anthropologists, and I directed the anthropological component of the project. The Principal Investigator was Prof. Graeme Barker, Cambridge. Other Co-Investigators were Huw Barton, Leicester; Chris Gosden, Oxford; and Chris Hunt, Queens Belfast.
- 2009-2010 Firebird Foundation award for collection of material on Kelabit oral literature

Membership of boards and professional bodies

- 2012- Member of editorial board of the journal Indonesia and the Malay World
- 2020- Member of editorial board of the Sarawak Museum Journal
- 2012- Fellow of the Royal Society of Arts
- 2002- Member, International Commission on the Anthropology of Food (ICAF)
- 1990- Fellow, Borneo Research Council
- 1991- Member, Association of Social Anthropologists (ASA)
- 1994- Member, European Association of Social Anthropologists (EUROSEAS)
- 1991- Member, Association for South East Asian Studies in the United Kingdom (ASEASUK)

Current and recent voluntary/unpaid activities and positions

- Quaker Prison Chaplain, The Mount Prison, Bovingdon, Hemel Hempstead (until 2024)
- Organiclea workers cooperative, Chingford, Essex - volunteering with food-growing and buddying of vulnerable volunteers (2010-2018)
- Pa' Dalih Forest and Water Trust - Trustee and Director of UK charity (which I set up), raising money to help the people of the Kelabit community Pa' Dalih (where I have carried out research since 1986) to protect forest and water resources for their own livelihoods (current).
- Kresy-Siberia Virtual Museum - Trustee and Director of UK charity, as part of international KVSM. The KVSM is intended to make available information on the deportations of people from Eastern Poland into Siberia, Kazakhstan and Central Asia by the Soviet Union in 1940 and 1941 (2009-2012).
- Irish Catholic Chaplaincy. Member of Advisory Board for Irish Travellers in Prison research project (2010 - 2011).
- Quaker Social Action, East London. Evaluation of projects, redesign of questionnaires, telephone interviews (2010).

- Roma Support Group, East London. Help in fund-raising for oral history project among elderly Roma from Eastern Europe; help in arranging for tour of RSG exhibition on Eastern European Roma culture (2010).

Radio series and associated visual and online material to communicate research findings

I co-conceived, researched and co-produced the radio series below, in collaboration with the BBC, and produced the associated printed and online material listed.

2005 'Eating out Safely' (broadcast on ZNBC radio in Zambia). Funding from DFID, as part of an action research project through the Natural Resources Institute, University of Greenwich. CD available of audio.

2005 'Rats!' (broadcast on BBC World Service). Drawing on RATZOOMAN project (see above). Funding from BBC and from EU. Notes and audio at http://news.bbc.co.uk/2/hi/programmes/documentary_archive/4599909.stm

2003-2004 'Together to Market' (broadcast on Radio Lira and other radio stations in Uganda;). Funding from DFID RNRRS as part of research project 'Radio and marketing of agricultural produce' (see above). CD available of audio.

2003 'Traditional Livelihoods' (broadcast on BBC World Service). Funding from BBC. Monica Janowski presented this series.

2003 'Gathering in the Rain' (broadcast on BBC World Service). Commissioned by DFID RNRRS (Renewable Natural Resources Research Strategy) and funded through the RNRRS and BBC.

2002 'The Language of Development' (broadcast on BBC World Service). Funding from BBC.

2002 'Making Ends Meet' (broadcast on BBC World Service). Notes and audio at <http://www.nri.org/MakingEndsMeet/> and 'virtual visits' of remote communities featured at <http://www.z360.com/mem/index1.htm>. Funding from BBC and DFID.

1999-2001 'In the Field' (broadcast on BBC World Service). Cassettes of series, booklet and website widely used at secondary and tertiary level around the world since 2001. Notes and audio at <http://www.nri.org/InTheField/>. Funding from BBC and DFID.

1997 'Down to Earth' (broadcast on BBC World Service). Funding from BBC.

Audio slide shows to communicate research findings

I produced the following:

2014 Series of two slide shows on the role of food and family, in the context of the St. Vincent Family Project at Methodist Central Hall. This was part of a research project which I carried out under commission from the Caritas Social Action Network (CSAN) of the Catholic Church, using Theological Action Research and anthropological methods. The audio slide shows are for use on the SVFP website, and for training, policy development and advocacy work in the public arena on behalf of CSAN).

2011 Series of eight audio slide shows on the experiences of Irish Travellers in Prison for the Irish Chaplaincy in Britain, to be used in policy and advocacy and in training of prison officers. This was part of a research project on Irish Travellers in Prison for which I sat on the advisory board.

2009 Series of two audio slide shows for the Kresy-Siberia Virtual Museum, on the experiences of those deported from Eastern Poland (see

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=WDNxxvgMZzs> and <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=QiLeikpRAf0>).

International development research

I designed and supervised the anthropological components of the following, on which I worked as appropriate with natural scientists, statisticians and economists based in the UK, other countries in Europe and in countries in which research was carried out.

January 2003-June 2006 (EU-funded research project, through NRI)

RATZOOMAN: Rats and Human Health in Africa: Mozambique, Tanzania and South Africa

2003-2005 (DFID-funded action research project, through NRI)

Radio and marketing of agricultural produce: Uganda

1999-2003 (DFID-funded research project, through NRI)

Non-Farm Livelihood Activities: Georgia, Armenia and Romania

1999-2002 (DFID-funded research project, through NRI)

Control of Wild Rice: Ghana

1998-99 (DFID-funded action research project, through NRI)

Development of integrated pest control for vegetables: India

1998 (scoping study for DFID RNRRS, through NRI)

Social feasibility and implications of banana/rubber intercropping (Sri Lanka).

1997 (review for DFID, through NRI)

Review of potential for collaboration between NGOs and the natural science research base, including visit to Vietnam.

1996 (scoping study as independent consultant, for ODA [DFID])

Potential of agricultural cooperatives in Romania. With the collaboration of the Cooperative College, UK.

1996 (review, as independent consultant for ODA [DFID])

Progress on Mt. Mulanji Massif Strategy project.

1996 (as independent consultant, for ODA [DFID])

Scoping study for research on female genital mutilation (Ethiopia).

1995 and 1996 (series of visits as ODA staff member and as independent consultant for ODA [DFID])

Assessment of social impact of Lesotho Highlands Development Plan, carried out in collaboration with World Bank staff.
